Let's stay a little longer in the outdoor space, which is so well designed for relaxation, that on the most beautiful days of the year, you can practically live outside in this property. the first floor there are two other bedrooms, each with its own terrace for the most beautiful mornings or the most pleasant evenings. All rooms in the villa are air-conditioned. And considering that today's villa was created from a hundred-year-old, traditional house, in addition to autochthonous, original details, the interior is purposefully dominated by neutral shades fused with natural materials such as wood and stone. The interior exudes airy luxury complete with details such as selected ceramics, wall macrame or unique, designer lighting. Wooden beams in the bedrooms and bathrooms give that special rustic charm, which is additionally enriched with natural fabrics that prevail in the textile decor.

All this can be yours with maximum privacy, walls that delimit the plot and provide complete security. It also has a closed, protected storage room and two parking spaces.

In addition to this villa, the owners own another one of a similar type, and both villas can be bought together. Because with these buildings, you are not only buying real estate, but also a well-known brand that has long been recognized in the tourist rental business and has its own website and a base of permanent, loyal clients who regularly stay in the villas.
